b. The following air missions were flown in support of Operation BROWN:

Mission	Number	Remarks
Close Air Support	6	6 F-8; 1 F-4;
Medevacs	15	5 A-4 8 emergency, 2 priority, 5 routine.

Recon (C&G)	2
Other	1	Extraction of ONTOS by CH-53

(1) All requests were made over TAR Net #1 except for those using direct support "working" helicopters. Three CAS mission requests were sent by the AO.

(2) Three CAS missions were preplanned and commenced precisely on time. Ordnance delivered was of the type and quantity requested and all fire was on target. Three CAS missions were scrambled. Reaction time for fixed-wing was forty minutes for the first flight.

(3) Average reaction time for emergency medevacs was 36 minutes; priority medevacs, forty minutes; and for routine medevacs, seventy-four minutes. Reaction time was measured from time of notification of DASC to completion of casualty pick-up.

UNCLASSIFIED

(4) All air resupply requests were fulfilled as requested. Resupply for this operation was unusually timely and effective. Only one delay was encountered due to a downed helicopter.

(5) All requests for Aerial Observers were met. In addition to valuable reconnaissance information, AO's provided spotting for mortar, Naval Gunfire, and artillery missions and controlled all three air strikes.

c. Tracked Vehicles. In support of Operation BROWN there were 10 LVTP-5's, 4 ONTOS, and 1 OTTER. The LVT's were in support of Company G and the ONTOS in support of Company C for sweep operations over a broad ZOA. The inherent speed and mobility of the vehicles provided for effective coverage in the ZOA, and rapid closure on Objectives A through C. One ONTOS was severely damaged by an enemy mine and was salvaged by helicopter extraction. Two LVT's were damaged by enemy land mines. Repairs were accomplished at the scene. However, at this time it was decided to terminate use of tracked vehicles in the area of operations. Deciding factors in this decision were the mine threat and the pending need to resupply all tracked vehicles with fuel. At this point in the operation there was sufficient fuel to return to a refueling point outside the area of operations. One OTTER was used to tow rubber boats in a river crossing operation to extract forces from the area of operations. At least three OTTERS should have been available for an efficient river crossing.

7. Intelligence

a. Enemy Forces Anticipated in Objective Area

(1) The S-2 Section estimated that there were approximately 300 Viet Cong in PHU KY Island. The force was a composite of local village guerrillas and approximately 120 Main Force soldiers from the R-20th Battalion.

b. Enemy Force Actually Encountered

(1) During Operation BROWN, 1st Marines forces met with harassing fire and scattered resistance from local guerrillas and main force elements. Interrogation of all detainees and villagers stated that the VC knew the Marines were to launch an operation on PHU KY Island and began to leave the area between 13-16 June 1967. Three to four hundred NVA soldiers left the 10th June 1967 from BT 0554 and moved south.

(2) Mines and Booby Traps. A total of 10 mines and booby traps were encountered by the Second Battalion, First Marines sweep forces. Five were detonated, and five were discovered and destroyed.

(3) Caves and Tunnels. A network of well constructed family bunkers and trenches run throughout PHU KY Island.

o. Terrain

(1) Cover and Concealment. Numerous built-up areas, bamboo thickets and hedgerows offered good concealment. Limited cover was offered by topographical variations and civilian dwellings. In many areas movement is restricted to trails running through stands of dense vegetation on either side.

(2) Critical Terrain Features. None.

(3) Observation and Fields of Fire. Observation and fields of fire were generally limited due to thick vegetation and built-up areas.

(4) Obstacles. Man-made obstacles encountered consisted of a network of well-developed trenches and fences. There are six small bridges on the railroad bed which crosses the approximate middle of PHU KY Island. These bridges cross small streams and in the dry season the stream beds are dry providing a natural exit through the railroad bed, which is a difficult obstacle for east-west movement by tracked vehicle. However, these streambeds under the bridges are to be considered as mined and should be carefully checked before being used by tracked vehicles. Three box type mines were emplaced under the bridge at BT 002529. Natural obstacles were the rivers THU BON, KY LAM, DIEN BINH and CHEM SON and minor streams and canal networks.

8. Mission. 2nd Bn, 1st Mar (-) (Rein) conducts search and destroy operations via PHU KY Island to capture or destroy enemy forces, supplies and facilities; be prepared on order to displace and exploit contacts in adjacent areas.

9. Concept. Commencing D-1, 2nd Bn (-) (Rein) prepositioned forces adjacent to the objective area by vehicle movement. At D-Day, H-Hour, two companies, 81mm Mortar Plt (-), and Cnd Grp crossed LOD aboard LVT's with ONTOS in support, and commenced search and destroy operations toward objective A. On D+1 through D+3, companies continued eastward movement across PHU KY Island conducting detailed and systematic search of area.

14. Recommendations

a. That future operations be planned and conducted in this objective area as follows:

(1) A battalion sweep force employing a blocking force under the operational control of the battalion.

(2) Company base areas employing roving patrol bases throughout the area. The company bases concept employing at least two companies and a battalion command group consisting of two 81mm mortar sections and one rifle platoon as battalion reserve is considered to be ideal. This force should be supported by ONTOS and LVTP's for mobility. An operation of three weeks duration is recommended.

b. That blocking forces for future search and destroy operations be under the operational control of the sweep force commander and that Regional Force units not be employed in the blocking force role.

c. Captured enemy equipment:

1 pack
1 canteen
2 ponchos
1 towel
5 lb sack black powder
15 lb roll of black powder
2 magazines 7.63
1 first aid kit & assorted medical supplies
food
assorted clothing
1 cartridge belt

d. Friendly equipment losses: none.

12. Administrative Matters

a. Supply. Combat loads, ammunition and weapons were adequate for the mission. Resupply was effected at the company level by helicopters from an LSA established at the Bn CP(Rear).

b. Maintenance procedures. Normal.

c. Casualty treatment and medical evacuation. Seriously wounded members were evacuated from field positions to 1st Med Bn by helicopter. Less serious cases were lifted to the Bn Cp(rear) for treatment.

d. Transportation. 5 ton trucks were used for Company G of 1st Bn, 1st Marines and the Bn Cmd Grp to the assembly area. Co G and Blmm mortar Sections utilized the 10 LVTP's for this movement. 5 ton trucks were used from the termination site to return each unit to its respective CP.

e. Communications. Relay stations were established at 018571, which continued to provide adequate communications during Operation BROWN. Communications with Battalion(rear) were satisfactory. Communications with Regiment were unsatisfactory while operating west of the railroad tracks. This was probably due to the low ground and dense vegetation. For future operations in this area activation of the Regimental Command Net using AN/PRC-47 is recommended.

13. Commander's Analysis. Operation BROWN did not clear the objective area permanently of VC. There were indications that local force VC were located in the objective and adjacent areas and were moving well ahead of or successfully hiding from the sweep force.

1. MISSION

a. Basic Mission. See Second Battalion, First Marines Operation Order 214-67.

b. Purpose of this Estimate

(1) To provide accurate intelligence concerning the PHU KY Island complex.

2. ENEMY SITUATION

a. Characteristics of the Area of Operations

(1) Military Geography

(a) Topography: PHU KY Island is characterized by relatively flat rice paddies which are sectioned by paddy dikes approximately 2' - 3' high and 1' - 2' wide. The commanding terrain and cultural features are the hamlets and the railroad bed, which runs generally in a north-south direction and is heavily fortified. The vegetation consists of stands of bamboo and secondary growth, which is extremely thick in and around the hamlets. It offers excellent to good concealment to the defending or maneuvering force but greatly limits observation. The villages of PHU KY Island are drained by the Song THU BON, the Song BA REV, Song CHIEM SON and the small streams and tributaries on the island.

(b) Climate and Weather: (Issued separately)

(2) Politics

(a) PHU KY Island is divided into six villages, PHU MY, PHU HUNG, PHU PHONG, PHU TAN, PHU THO and PHU LOC. These villages have been under Viet Cong control since late 1964 when two companies of the R.20

Battalion moved into the island complex from Duc Duc District and defeated the Popular Force soldiers, who were defending the villages.

(b) Since attaining military control of the island, the Viet Cong have established and developed their political infrastructure. An Autonomous Committee has been established in each village. This committee is responsible for the administration and control of the village. Its members collect taxes, issue authorization papers to carry weapons, to travel, to purchase goods and it carries out and enforces doctrines from higher authorities. The committee also provides for the feeding and billeting of Local Force and Main Force soldiers, who frequently stay on the island.

(c) The majority of the inhabitants of PHU KY Island support the Viet Cong. Many are families or relatives of Local Force and Main Force soldiers, but reports received from the villages indicate that GVN sympathizers do reside there.

(3) Economics

(a) Although once the center of a small thriving silk industry, the PHU KY Island economy depends primarily on agriculture. The residents raise rice, sweet potatoes, manioc, peanuts and tobacco. They must buy their other staples and spices from the merchants in the government controlled areas. In order to purchase these goods, the Viet Cong have established economic sections in each village. The members of these sections are sent to government controlled areas to buy fish sauce, salt, oil, clothes, clerical supplies and other necessities.

(4) Sociology

(a) The inhabitants of the area are classified by GVN officials as being members of the Poor Farmer class. Based on the latest government estimate, the population of PHU KY is approximately 9,000. Due to the frequency of air strikes and artillery fires on PHU KY, the population will be considerably less. Many of the inhabitants have moved to GVN controlled areas and to relatively safe areas south of the Song CHIEM SON river in order to avoid the air strikes and artillery fires.

b. Enemy and Military Situation

(1) Composition

(a) The Viet Cong Force in PHU KY Island is a composite of local hamlet and village guerrillas and Viet Cong Local Force soldiers from the R.20 Battalion.

(2) Locally Available Strength

B-3-2

UNCLASSIFIED

UNCLASSIFIED

(a) Agent reports, interrogation reports and rallies indicate that there are approximately 300 Viet Cong cadre, guerrillas, and Local Force soldiers located in PHU KY Island.

(b) There is one guerrilla platoon in each village with a strength of 20-30 men. These platoons consist of one recon cell and one sapper cell. It is estimated that the combined strength of the guerrilla platoons is 150-180 men. They are reported to be armed with M-1 and M-2 carbines, K-44's, M-1's and M-14's.

(c) Agent reports received since 11 June indicate that elements of the R.20 Battalion are located in PHU KY, the primary locations being PHU DONG and BAN LANH hamlets.

(d) Early in June, Captain DO XUAN THIEP, Jr. rallied to I Corps. THIEP was a member of the Quang Da Organic Military Committee. During interrogation, he stated that the base camp of the R.20 Battalion is located in PHU KY at BO AN TAY vicinity AT 980532.

(3) Availability of Reinforcements.

(a) The Viet Cong have two Local Force battalions and one District Main Force company within 24 hours march of PHU KY Island, the V.25 and R.20 Battalions and the Dien Ban District Company Q.15.

(4) Location and Disposition

(a) At the present time, the V.25 is located in the northwestern part of Duc Duc District. The estimated strength of the battalion is 400 men and the combat effectiveness of its personnel is considered to be good. It has just completed a complete re-organization and retraining program and now has a sapper organization and capability. The unit is commanded by Senior Captain TUY, a former officer in the 402nd Sapper Battalion. The battalion is armed with 1x81mm mortar, 2x 82mm mortars, 1x57mm DKZ recoilless rifle, K-50's, AK-47's, carbines, 21 SKZ's, 3x.30 cal MG, 3x60mm mortars, 8x8-40's and 4x8-41's. Its primary mission is to make frontal assaults and infiltration attacks on American/ARVN positions.

(b) The R.20 Battalion is located in PHU KY and DAI LOC District. The estimated strength of the battalion is 350 men. The combat effective strength of this unit is considered to be good. After Operation Stone, the R.20 was rebuilt, by transferring all the soldiers of the V.25 to the R.20 to replace its losses. The battalion is reported to be armed with 1x81mm mortar, 3x60mm mortars, 1x57mm RR, 2xMG's and individual weapons consisting of K-50's, AK-47's and carbines.

(c) The Q.15 District Force Company is located in Dien Ban District. The estimated strength of the company is 90 men. The combat effectiveness of the unit is good and it is reported to be armed with 2x60mm mortars, 2x.30 cal MG's, K-50's, MAS-36's, M-1's, M-14's, French

BAR's and carbines.

3. ENEMY CAPABILITIES

a. The Viet Cong are capable of attacking/ambushing friendly units at a time and location of their choosing in two company strength reinforced by local guerrillas.

b. The Viet Cong are capable of defending any position or hamlet, which they deem vital, in two company strength.

c. The Viet Cong are capable of dispersing into small groups and withdrawing/hiding from our units.

d. The Viet Cong are capable of reinforcing their units with two battalions and one company in 24 hours.

4. ANALYSIS OF ENEMY CAPABILITIES

a. The Viet Cong in PHY KY are capable of massing two companies composed of local guerrillas and one company from the R.20 Battalion in order to ambush/attack.

b. The Viet Cong are capable of massing two companies composed of local guerrillas and one company from the R.20 Battalion in order to defend any hamlet or installation of vital importance to them.

c. In the past the Viet Cong, when opposed by Marine operational units of any size, have attempted to disperse in small groups and withdraw to the south and southwest into the Duc Duc Mountains or to the northwest into KY NGOC Village. Others have hid in caves and tunnels.

d. By calling upon the V.25, R.20 and Q.35 the Viet Cong can reinforce with two battalions and one company.

5. CONCLUSIONS

a. The Viet Cong will attempt to avoid the sweep force by hiding in caves and tunnels and by withdrawing to the south and southwest into the Duc Duc Mountains or by withdrawing to the northwest, depending upon the disposition of the Marine units. If avenues of escape are blocked they will attempt to maneuver behind the sweep force.

b. If pressed they will choose an advantageous position to defend.

c. If presented the opportunity they will attack/ambush.

The Viet Cong could reinforce their units but this is highly improbable.

1. In accordance with references (a), (b) and (c), enclosure (1) is forwarded herewith.
2. In paragraph 12.c. of enclosure (1), the quality of communications is considered marginal rather than unsatisfactory. A readable signal was exchanged continuously during the operation through established radio relay. The performance of the new family of FM radios has proven so reliable that there is a tendency to regard anything less than a loud and clear signal as unsatisfactory.
3. The recommendation that future operations be planned and conducted on ITOY Island, as contained in paragraph 14.a. of the subject report is concurred in. Future operations in this area will be planned and implemented.
4. The recommendation that Regional Force units not be employed as a blocking force, as contained in paragraph 14.c. of the subject report is not concurred in.
