NARRATIVE SUMMARY

1. General overview of all activities. On 1 October the 4th Marine Regiment, 3rd Marine Division was fully operational with three Battalions deployed in the north central portion, south of the Demilitarized Zone in Quang Tri Province, Vietnam. The 1st Battalion was assigned/tasked with the defense of Vandegrift Combat Base, and Signal Hill, and for the security of route #9 from Vandegrift Combat Base north 3000 meters to the boundary between the 2nd and 1st Battalions. On 5 October 1969 the 1st Battalion disengaged from combat, stood down from its tactical commitment, and displaced to Quang Tri Combat Base to prepare for redeployment to Okinawa. Delta Company 1st Battalion was assigned to the operational control of 2nd Battalion 4th Marines to provide security for the 2nd Battalion 2nd ARVN Regiment in order that the ARVN could devote full time to the dismantling and salvaging of material from Vandegrift Combat Base to be used in the construction of a new combat base to be constructed at Camp Carroll. Delta company remained at Vandegrift until relieved by a platoon from Golf Company on 10 October. On the 10th, Delta Company rejoined its parent unit at Quang Tri Combat Base and commenced preparation for redeployment. On 22 October, the 1st Battalion 4th Marines embarked aboard ships at Cua Viet and sailed for Okinawa. The Battalion arrived on Okinawa on 25 October and immediately commenced rehabilitation and training programs to satisfy the initial 30 day redeployment requirements outlined by the Division.

The 2nd Battalion, 4th Marines continued its primary mission which was the defense of Elliot Combat Base, Fire Support Base Fuller, and the Khe Gio Bridge on route #9, and the conduct of offensive operations in its assigned TAOR north to the Demilitarized Zone. In order to assist the 2nd Battalion in accomplishing this mission Lima and Kilo companies 3rd Battalion, 4th Marines and, as previously discussed, Delta company 1st Battalion, 4th Marines were assigned to the operational control of the 2nd Battalion. With these additional companies the 2nd Battalion conducted aggressive offensive operations to within 1000 meters of the southern boundary of the Demilitarized Zone and succeded in uncovering numerous North Vietnamese graves and weapons and ammunition caches. The Battalion disengaged from combat on 22 October and displaced to Quang Tri Combat Base to prepare for embarkation to Okinawa. On 22 October Golf Company, reinforced with a platoon from Hotel Company remained at Elliot Combat Base and was assigned to the operational control of the 3rd Marine Division. Golf Company was assigned the mission of policing and destroying the fortifications at Elliot Combat Base, a task which was completed on 25 October. After the destruction of ECB, Golf Company displaced to Quang Tri, rejoined the 2nd Battalion, and prepared for embarkation with their parent unit.

Kilo Company was assigned to the operational control of the 3rd Battalion on 22 October when the 2nd Battalion stood down. Lima Company remained on Fire Support Base Fuller and was assigned to the operational control of the 3rd Marine Division. Lima Company continued their mission of defending FSB Fuller until relieved by elements of the 1st Brigade of the 5th Mechanized Division on 5 November. The 2nd Battalion sailed for Okinawa on 6 November and arrived at Kin Red Beach on 12 November. The Battalion immediately commenced their initial training requirements and made a maximum effort on the rehabilitation of their gear.

On 1 October the 3rd Battalion (-) was conducting offensive operations out of Dong Ha Combat Base. India Company occupied and defended a defensive sector of the Dong Ha perimeter and Mike Company operated in a separate area of operation north of the Cua Viet river. Mike Company's area of operations was established by the 3rd Marine Division and their aggressive small unit patrol activities and company size search and destroy operations were vital in keeping the river free from enemy activities. The Cua Viet was of primary interest to the Regiment and Division for two reasons, first the river was the main supply route for all logistical gear introduced into Division, and second it provided the avenue of egress for half of the Marines in the Division as they redeployed to Okinawa. As mentioned above, two companies from the 3rd Battalion were assigned to the operational control of the 2nd Battalion as the month opened. On 5 October the 3rd Battalion assumed the responsibility for the defense of Dong Ha Combat Base and continued their mission of security along the north bank of the Cua Viet river. The Battalion maintained this posture through 22 October. On that date Kilo Company was rejoined to the 3rd Battalion and assisted in the defense of Dong Ha. At the same time the Battalion was assigned to the operational control of the 3rd Division since the 4th Marines COC stood down from combat operations and the Regimental Command Post commenced planning for embarkation to Okinawa. On 5 November the 3rd Battalion disengaged from combat operations and commenced preparations for redeployment. At the same time Lima Company, who had been on Fire Support Base Fuller under the operational control of the 3rd Marine Division since 22 October, rejoined their parent unit in the stand down. The Battalion sailed from Vietnam on 20 November and arrived on Okinawa four days later.

After terminating combat operations on 22 October the Regimental Command Post was flown to Da Nang on 7 November to participate in departure ceremonies for the Division. Immediately after the ceremony the Regimental Commander flew to Okinawa and late on 7 November established his new command post at Camp Hansen Okinawa. The Regiment then began to prepare for its new and challenging mission - that of an amphibious force in readiness.

After all of the subordinate units of the 4th Marines rejoined on Okinawa they immediately undertook an active and aggressive training program to reorient all Marines in the command to garrison life and to throughly train them in the tactics and techniques of amphibious operations.

By 31 December all three Battalions were conducting progressive training in small unit tactics. Training facilities at Camp Fuji, rifle ranges, and Camp Hansen training areas were used constantly and the proficiency of each Marine in both general military subjects and small unit tactics was markedly increased. By the end of December there was no doubt that the 4th Marines would be fully prepared to professionally execute their new mission.

b. During the second week of October enemy activity increased with two contacts and seven incidents of harassing rocket/mortar fire. Elements of the regiment killed 10 NVA and discovered an additional 16 bodies. E/2/4 also found a cache of friendly and enemy equipment in the Sierra area where elements of 3/3 had previously been attacked. A platoon of Lima Company 3/4 just west of the Kho Cio Bridge vicinity YD016562 was attacked by an estimated two platoons of enemy troops on the 9th. The enemy employed heavy small arms fire, Chicom grenades, and satchel charges. A sweep of the area the following morning revealed 10 NVA KIA, 30 unused explosive charges, 7 Chicom grenades, and two AK-47 rifles. On the 10th a truck from I/3/4 was ambushed by an unknown size enemy force vicinity YD261590. There was slight damage to the vehicle. On the 14th E/2/4 vicinity XD947630 found four destroyed NVA bunkers. A search of the area uncovered the following: three NVA bodies, 12 rifle grenades, (114)81 millimeter mortar rounds, (11)60 millimeter rounds, 7 satchel charges, 15 NVA gas masks, 6 incendiary grenades, 20 Chicom grenades, 5 trip flares, one M-10 plotting board, 2 RPG launchers, 2 AK-47 magazines, 2 M-79's, 2 M-16 rifles, 3 M-16 barrels, one PRC-88 radio, and one 81 millimeter mortar.

c. During the final week of the operation enemy activity decreased somewhat. Elements of the 2nd Battalion continued to find discarded enemy gear and there were several incidents of friendly troops receiving sniper fire. On the 16th, E/2/4 vicinity XD945606 observed six NVA wearing dark green uniforms and packs. The same day a Marine in I/3/4 detonated an antipersonnel mine vicinity YD248546. On the 17th elements of F/2/4 received sniper fire vicinity YD000490. 2/4 swept the area, but were unable to make contact with the enemy. The same day E/2/4 found 5 NVA bodies in graves vicinity XD960598. In addition they found 108 Chicom grenades and assorted NVA 782 gear. On the 19th H/2/4 at ECB received sniper fire, and on the same day L/3/4 received sniper fire vicinity YD251575. On the 21st a road sweep team working with H/2/4 discovered a blown culvert on route #9 vicinity YD008565. The blast produced a 6' X 4' hole in the middle of the road but the road remained passable on either side. Later the same morning H/2/4 reported 6 rounds of incoming impacting in the vicinity of YD014562. Three of the rounds were reported as air bursts. On the morning of the 23rd, the lead vehicle in the daily road sweep detonated a mine which had been placed on the shoulder of the road near the previously blown culvert. Also on the 23rd H/2/4 at ECB received 2 rounds of 60MM mortar fire.

d. Assessment of enemy situation. Operations in the Sierra area confirmed other intelligence reports that the elements of the 9th Regiment, 304th Division, which had been operating in this area, had withdrawn, probably into NVN. Enemy elements, consisting of sappers and their supporting infantry probably deployed from NVN on a one mission basis.

e. Following redeployment to Okinawa in early November, the main effort was in establishing garrison operations and reestablishing the combat readiness of the Regimental and Battalion S-2 sections. These efforts continued through 31 December 1969. In addition the S-2 section commenced a project to prepare accurate area studies of those countries in which 4th Marine units could be deployed in the future.

f. The weather in both Vietnam and Okinawa was as follows:

(1) The weather during October in Vietnam was characterized by generally clear skies and hot humid days. During the first 5 days of October, weather conditions consisted of heavy, scattered rain showers and thunderstorms. Visibility was generally ½-2 miles in heavy rainfall. Maximum temperatures ranged from 80-87 degrees with low temperatures of 72-75 degrees.

(2) Since arriving on Okinawa the weather has been mostly cloudy with scattered heavy rainfall. Temperatures have generally been in the 60's and 70's with the winds gusting from the north and north east. The weather has not adversely affected the training of the Regiment.

5. Operations.

a. Combat operations during October consisted primarily of platoon and company size search and destroy operations. As in the past months, the majority of the contacts were small but violent. Reconnaissance teams made numerous sightings and called artillery and/or fixed wing on the enemy positions. Only once did the NVA mass and attempt to attack a platoon position and their attack was unsuccessful.

b. Enemy mortar fire continued to be sporadic. The majority of the fire was generally inaccurate.

6. Results of Operations.

a. Casualties inflicted on the enemy - 45 NVA KIA

b. Casualties sustained.

8. Logistics.

A. The principal logistic task for the period 1 October through 31 December 1969 was support of the redeployment of 4th Marines from Vandegrift Combat Base to Camp Hansen, Okinawa; these events took place during that redeployment:

(1) The Regiment moved from Vandegrift Combat Base to Dong Ha/Quang Tri Combat Bases, support was provided by the Division Motor Transport Officer with Second Platoon, "C" Company, 9th Motor Transport Battalion, supplementing the organic vehicles of the Regiment.

(2) The closing of all Fire Support Bases in the 4th Marines AO was accomplished by 3rd Engineer Battalion and working parties provided by the infantry battalions of the 4th Marines.

(3) The destruction of Vandegrift Combat Base and Elliot Combat Base was primarily accomplished by 11th Engineer Battalion's heavy equipment and working parties provided by the 4th Marine infantry battalions.

(4) RLT-4 was established for embarkation from Dong Ha/Quang Tri Combat Bases to Camp Hansen, Okinawa.

(5) The Embarkation section of RLT-4, principally the Embarkation personnel of 4th Marines, worked closely with 3rd Marine Division Embarkation personnel throughout the planning and execution of the move. The move was accomplished in three phases by Embarkation Elements. Bravo 1, 2, and 3, each formed around the nucleus of an infantry battalion. The redeployment of the last Embarkation Element was completed on 29 November 1969. During the embarkation phase radio nets were established at Dong Ha Ramp and Headquarters RLT-4 (S-4 Office) and were operated to coordinate the movement of equipment and personnel from the staging areas to Dong Ha Ramp.

6. Intelligence.

a. General.

(1) The 4th Marines Regimental Operation commenced on 25 Sep 1969. Prior to commencement of the operation, elements of the 9th Regiment, 304th NVA Division, and its supporting units were known to be operating in the area of operations in the Mack/Sierra, Mutter's Ridge area some 4-5 thousand meters south of the DMZ.

(2) During September there were 8 sightings and one contact with enemy forces in the TAOR. The contact occurred when an estimated two platoons to a company of enemy troops attacked elements of G/2/4 east of the Razorback vicinity XD978586 on the 27th. In this attack, the enemy employed small arms, mortar, and RPG fire. Artillery and mortar fires were returned. Fixed wing flights on enemy in the open the following morning resulted in 10 NVA KIA. A sweep of the enemy positions revealed numerous chicom grenades, RPG casings, small arms brass, and bloody bandages. During this same period, the enemy also employed harrasing mortar fire against friendly positions on the 27th, 29th, and 30th of September.

(3) During the first week of October, enemy activity was light in the area of operations with three sightings, one incident of incoming and one mining incident. On the 3d of Oct, an Army APC detonated an anti-tank mine vicinity YD032564, E/2/4 discovered three enemy bodies in graves vicinity XD965605, and L/3/4 sighted three enemy personnel with a starlight scope vicinity YD026563.

On the 4th, H/2/4 discovered 4 NVA bodies and assorted 782 gear vicinity XD945625. On the 5th L/3/4 observed 6 NVA vicinity of the Khe Gio Bridge, and H/2/4 observed one NVA vicinity XD953606. On the 6th, H/2/4 received 6 rounds of mortar fire and later the same morning received an unknown number of additional mortar rounds.

(4) During the second week of October, enemy activity increased with two contacts and seven incidents of harrasing rocket/mortar fire. Elements of the Regiment killed 10 NVA and discovered enemy equipment in the Sierra area where elements of 3/3 had previously been attacked. A platoon of Company L/3/4 just west of the Khe Gio Bridge vicinity YD016562 received a ground attack from an estimated two platoons of enemy troops on 9 Oct. The enemy employed heavy small arms fire, chicom grenades, and satchel charges. A sweep of the area the following morning revealed 10 NVA KIA's, 30 explosive charges, 7 chicom grenades, and two AK-47 rifles. On the 10th, a truck from I/3/4 was ambushed by an unknown size enemy force vicinity YD261590 resulting in slight damage to the vehicle. On the 14th, E/2/4 vicinity XD947630 found 4 caved in bunkers. A search of the area yielded the following: 3 NVA bodies, 12 rifle grenades, (114) 81mm mortar rounds, (11) 60mm mortar rounds, 7 satchel charges, 15 NVA gas masks, 6 incindiary grenades, 20 chicom grenades, 5 trip flares, (1) M-10 plotting board, 2 RPG launchers, 2 AK-47 magazines, 2 M-79's, 2 M-16 rifles, 3 M-16 barrels, 1 PRC-88 radio, and one 81mm mortar complete.

(5) During the final week of the operation, enemy activity decreased somewhat. Elements of the 2d Battalion continued to find discarded enemy gear and there were several incidents of friendly troops receiving sniper fire. On the 16th, E/2/4 vicinity XD945606 observed 6 NVA wearing dark green uniforms and packs. The same day, a member of I/3/4 detonated an anti-personnel mine vicinity YD248546. On the 17th, elements of F/2/4 received sniper fire vicinity YD000490. 2/4 swept this area, but was unable to make contact with the enemy. The same day, E/2/4 found 5 NVA bodies in graves vicinity XD960598. Also found were 108 chicom grenades and assorted NVA gear. On the 21st, a road sweep team working with H/2/4 discovered a blown culvert on Route #9 vicinity YD008565. The blast also produced a blown culvert 6'X4' in the middle of the road which was passable on either side. Later the same morning, H/2/4 reported 6 rounds of incoming impacted in the vicinity of YD014562. Three of the rounds were reported as air bursts. On the morning of the 23rd, the first vehicle of the road sweep detonated a mine which had been placed on the shoulder of the road near the blown culvert. Also on the 23rd, H/2/4 at ECB received 2 rounds of 60mm mortar fire.

(6) Assessment of enemy situation. Operations in the Sierra area confirmed other intelligence reports that the enemy elements of the 9th Regiment, 304th Division, which had been operating in this area, had withdrawn, probably into NVN. Enemy elements conducting ground attacks during this period consisted of sappers and their supporting infantry probably deployed from NVN on a one mission basis.

b. Terrain Study.

(1) General. This study generally falls in the topographic areas referred to as the Northern Highlands and is characterized by extremely rugged mountains dissected by perenial and intermittent streams. The slopes are generally between 40 to 60 percent and are often 100 percent (45 degrees) or greater. The only area characterized by gentle slopes are the large river valleys and the isolated elevated plains.

(2) Cover and Concealment.

(a) Cover. Cover in the rugged terrain of the mountains is good for flat trajectory weapons, fair for aerial ordnance, fair for artillery fire and poor for mortars. However, in multi-canopied areas, the canopy will provide fair cover from indirect fire weapons. In the relatively flat terrain of the valleys and elevated plains, the brushwood areas provide poor cover from all types of weapons. Single canopied forests offer fair cover from flat trajectory weapons, but poor cover from all other fires.

(b) Concealment. Multi-canopied, dense undergrowth forests provide excellent concealment from aerial and ground observation. Ground observation is generally limited to a few feet due to the heavy shade and dense undergrowth. Single canopied light undergrowth forests offer fair to good concealment from aerial observation and good concealment from ground observation. Brushwood offers poor concealment from aerial observation and good concealment from ground observation.

(c) Obstacles. The main obstacles in the area of operations are the dense undergrowths in the forests, and the steep slopes and cliffs in the mountainous areas. In the river and stream valleys the main obstacles are the waterways, especially during and after periods of rainfall when the runoff from nearby mountains make the streams deep, swift, and unfordable.

(d) Key Terrain. Due to the terrain constrictions in the area of operations, enemy movement is generally channelized into the stream valleys which dissect the area. Most of the stream valleys have steep overgrown mountains on either side of them. The high ground on both sides of the streams are considered to be critical terrain features as enemy movement can be controlled from these vantage points.

DECLASSIFIED

(e) Observation and Avenue of Approach.

1. Observation. Observation will vary from 5-30 meters in the multi-canopied forests depending on the degree of the slope and the density of the undergrowth. In single canopied forests, observation was generally varied from 30-50 meters though some places having heavier undergrowth reduced visibility even lower. Visibility will vary from 30-75 meters in brushwood and from 2-5 meters in tall elephant grass. The only places in the TAOR that afford good observation are some of the mountains that have been cleared for landing zones or have been burned off by artillery fire or bombing.

2. Avenues of Approach. The main avenues of approach into the TAOR are the high speed trails that lead from the DMZ into the Mack/Sierra, Hutter's Ridge Area.

c. Weather.

(1) Local weather for the period of the operation was characterized by generally clear skies and hot humid days. During the first 5 days of October, weather conditions consisted of heavy, scattered rain showers and thunderstorms. Visibility was generally ½-2 miles in heavy rainfall. Maximum temperatures ranged from 80-87 degrees and low temperatures ranged from 72-75 degrees.

(2) During the remainder of the operation, rain decreased with occasional scattered rain showers in the afternoon or evening. There were generally clear skies and unlimited visibility. Winds were variable at 5-8 knots gusting to 15 knots during the period of rainfall. The average relative humidity readings were in the 45 to 65 percent range. Maximum temperatures ranged from 79-95 degrees and low temperatures ranged from 69-79 degrees. During this time the weather did not adversely effect operations.

7. Missions.

a. 25 September 69 - 4 October 69

(1) Continue offensive operations in assigned TAOR.

(2) Maintain Sparrow Hawk/Bald Eagle.

(3) Maintain one company on north bank of Cua Viet for river security.

(4) Be prepared to commence phased stand down and preparation for embarkation for redeployment during Phase II B.

b. 4 October 69 - 22 October 69

(1) Close VCB.

(2) Continue offensive operations in assigned TAOR.

(3) 3d Bn, 4th Marines assumes responsibility for DHCB.

(4) Close ECB.

8. Concept of Operation.

a. Initially, the enemy controlled key terrain south of the DMZ along the Hack/Sierra ridgeline. In addition he launched small unit attacks along Route #9 and occasionally attacked Dong Ha Combat Base by rocket fire. The counter offensive plan was as follows:

(1) To conduct aggressive offensive operations to within 1000 meters of the DMZ. As many as three rifle companies maneuvered in the vicinity of the Demilitarized Zone and saturated the area with squad and platoon size patrols.

(2) Offensive activity along Route #9 consisted of squad size patrols originated from Khe Gio Bridge and ECB. In addition, one maneuver company occasionally operated off the road to the north or south of Route #9 between ECB and Khe Gio Bridge or south of ECB to keep Route #9 open from VCB to ECB.

(3) One battalion assumed the responsibility for the defense of DHCB. In addition to that responsibility, one company from the battalion operated in a seperate TAOR on the north bank of the Cua Viet River with the mission of keeping the river open.

b. Massive artillery prep fires and fixed wing air strikes were often used on the objectives of maneuver elements. Both artillery and air rapidly and accurately responded to all contact missions and were effectively utilized to seal off avenues of egress once contact was made with the enemy.

9. Execution.

a. 28 September at 0050H, G/2/4 received S/A, mortar and RPG rounds from an unknown size enemy force. S/A fire was returned along with artillery, 81 and 60mm mortars, and Spooky was called on station. The enemy probed to within 50 meters of the company perimeter but were repelled from there. The attack ceased at about 0230H but enemy movement around the lines continued until about 0530H. At first light the company swept the battle area and captured 30 chicom grenades and 1 NVA gas mask. 10 NVA KIA were reported by an AO. Friendly casualties were 2 KIA and 17 WIA.

b. On 29 September at 1230H F/2/4 and G/2/4 received (10) 82mm mortar rounds. Artillery was fired and fixed wing air strikes were run on the suspected enemy position. Casualties were 1 FR KIA and 6 FR WIA. Later, at 1916H I/K/2/4 discovered a small cache containing (9) 82mm mortar rounds, and (2) RPG rounds, (8) 81mm mortar rounds, and (8) 60mm mortar rounds.

c. 4 October - At 1850H H/2/4 found (1) 82mm mortar round, (4) RPG rounds, (2) rifle grenades, (6) chicoms, (1) satchel charge, (15) gas masks, (4) NVA KIA in grave, (50) AK-47 rounds, (1) 81mm mortar tube, (50) 82mm mortar rounds, (3) claymores, (3) gas masks, (5) incindiary grenades and (3) helmets. All the gear was destroyed.

d. 8 October - At 2330H I/3/4 received 3-4 rounds of 82mm mortar fire outside the perimeter. There were no casualties.

e. 9 October - At 0035H 3/I/3/4 was attacked by an estimated two platoons of NVA. The enemy fired S/A and RPG's and threw chicoms and satchel charges. The platoon returned fire and repulsed a small penetration in one squad sector. Artillery, 81's and Spooky were fired at the enemy. A squad from L(-)3/4 was sent from the Kho Cio Bridge to reinforce the platoon. Contact was broken at about 0245H. Marine casualties were 8 KIA, and 28 WIA (17 of which were minor). 10 NVA KIA were found in a sweep of the area the next day.

f. At 1120H on 10 October 2/K/3/4 found 1 dead NVA. Later at 1800H, K/3/4 found 3 more NVA bodies in another grave. At 2235H, the Viet Patrol operating from Hong Ha Combat Base to Quang Tri Combat Base received S/A fire from an unknown size enemy force.

DECLASSIFIED

g. At 1425H on 12 October 1/3/0/2/4 found 6 NVA KIA buried in a small grave.

h. 13 October at 0725H a H/2/4 road sweep along Route #9 took 6 rounds of 82mm mortar fire from two enemy positions. Dusters took one position under fire and artillery was called in on the second. At 1215H, H/2/4 found (2) 82mm mortars in a small bunker complex. K/3/4 received (35) 82mm mortar rounds at 1315H and had 1 KIA (minor). 11. Administrative Matters.

a. Supply.

(1) Supplies were handled through normal logistical channels from the USA to FLC Danang and Flag-B in Quang Tri. Supplies were carried from Quang Tri to the LSA Vandegrift until 4 October by motor vehicle. From 4 October until 22 October, supplies were delivered from Quang Tri to Elliott Combat Base by motor vehicle.

(2) Resupply effectiveness to the companies depended on helicopter availability. Normally helicopters were readily available and only the weather in late September and early October and the terrain which afforded few LZ's, were deterrants to resupply.

b. Maintenance.

(1) No serious maintenance problems were encountered. First echelon maintenance by individual Marines was excellent.

c. Treatment of casualties, evacuation and hospitalization. During the period 22 September to 27 September, casualties were evacuated to Co C, 3d Medical Bn at Vandegrift Combat Base or directly to 3d Medical Bn at Quang Tri. From 27 September to 22 October, all casualties were evacuated directly to 3d Medical Bn at Quang Tri. Treatment of the wounded at all echelons was outstanding.

d. Transportation. Helicopters, trucks, and LCU's provided troop transportation for the 4th Marines.

e. Communications. Regimental communications operated out of Vandegrift Combat Base from 22 September until 5 October. From 5 October to 22 October, the Regimental communications operated out of Dong Ha Combat Base. Difficulty was encountered in communicating between Dong Ha and Elliott Combat Base. A radio relay team was established at Fire Support Base Fuller. The communications proved to be inadequate at times and caused the Regiment to place 2 watch officers at Fire Support Base Fuller to monitor and relay radio traffic.

f. Medical Evaluation, PUO, malaria, celulitis and diarrhea were the primary medical problems during this operation.

12. Special Equipment and Techniques. None.

13. Commander's Analysis.

(1) The contacts in this operation were sporadic but violent. The enemy continued to use hit and run tactics and occasionally mortared Marine elements from within or on the southern boundary of the DMZ. As in past operations thoroughly searching old and new bunker complexes for enemy equipment and ordnance proved worthwhile.

(2) Leaflet drops, aerial psychological broadcasts and ground psychological broadcasts by HB Teams were utilized south of the DMZ. The results of these efforts were unknown.

14. Recommendations. None
