NARRATIVE SUMMARY

The Second Battalion, 4th Marines opened the month on a search and destroy operation in the Con Thien area, to include squad sized patrols in the southern half of the DMZ below the Ben Hai River. Aggressive ambush activity and patrolling accounted for a significant amount of enemy equipment being captured and thirty-three enemy KIA's during the period 1-15 February, while suffering only three friendly WIA's. The skill and leadership exhibited by squad leaders who led patrols of 3 to 5 days duration up to 22 kilometers in length into the DMZ was a highlight of this operation. Another feature of this operation was the use of Recon Teams of 6 to 8 men from the 3d Recon Battalion, inserted by helicopter into the DMZ, and opened to this Battalion. In the event of enemy contact, Recon Teams were reinforced and extracted by a platoon of this Battalion moving overland, or by helicopter-inserted platoons provided by Division in a quick-reacting role, referred to as "Sparrow Hawks". Extraction was accomplished by overland movement to Con Thien. On 4 February, 1st Plt., Co. D, 1/4, received three rounds of suspected 82mm mortar fire from the vicinity of YD 159679. Later, the same unit sighted seven NVA in the vicinity of YD 155775 and called in artillery and air on them as they fled north. On 5 February, elements of Co. H spotted two NVA and set up a hasty ambush, but met with negative results. Co. G exchanged small arms fire with an enemy unit of unknown size at YD 156776 with negative results on 6 February. Later that day 1st Plt, Co. D 1/4, reported receiving approximately twenty-five rounds of incoming 60mm mortar fire from the vicinity of YD 172788. Still later, Co. G reported receiving twelve to fifteen rounds of incoming mortar fire from the vicinity of YD 174773. At 0900, on 7 February, elements of Co. G reported seeing a holiday size NVA flag raising in the vicinity of YD 181788, north of the Ben Hai River. Later that day, artillery was called on three NVA sighted moving in the vicinity of YD 061718 with unknown results. On 8 February, elements of Co. H exchanged small arms fire with two to five NVA, resulting in one probable enemy WIA. Later, ten NVA were taken under fire by an OV-10 in the vicinity of YD 176764 with unknown results. On 9 February, a Recon Team reported firing on six NVA in the vicinity of YD 095763 with unknown results. Later, Co. F called artillery on ten NVA sighted in the vicinity of YD 166740. An AO later sighted an undetermined number of NVA and supplies in the vicinity of YD 183755. On 10 February, Co. G suffered one WIA when the point element of a patrol tripped a chicom booby trap at YD 111753. On 11 February, Co. H suffered two WIA's when small arms fire was exchanged with approximately three NVA at YD 053674. Co. H called artillery on three NVA sighted in the vicinity of YD 046695 on 13 February, and, later, on two NVA sighted in the vicinity of YD 024667. An AO spotted thirty NVA at YD 112748 and called in artillery which resulted in six enemy KIA's confirmed. That night an ambush from Co. H initiated contact with an enemy force of unknown size at YD 023667 which accounted for two enemy KIA's. On 14 February, one NVA fired upon an element of Co. H that was searching the area of the previous night's ambush. An AO called in artillery on ten NVA in the vicinity of YD 125750 which resulted in four enemy KIA's confirmed. On 15 February, Co. H received three rounds of incoming 60mm mortar fire from the vicinity of YD 135715. At 1730, the Battalion was relieved of its mission at Con Thien and moved to Vandegrift Combat Base to assume a defensive posture.

For the remainder of the month, the Battalion assumed responsibility for the defense of FSB Russell, FSB Neville, FSB Cates, Hill 691, and Hill 950. From 1300 on 16 February to 1800 on 17 February, the Battalion ceased all offensive activity in accordance with MAC V directives. On 18 February, Co. E took one NVA under fire at XD 896594 with negative results. On 19 February, a patrol from Co. E exchanged small arms fire with an enemy unit in a bunker complex at XD 882582 - 880581 which resulted in one enemy KIA. Co. E reported receiving three rounds of incoming 60mm mortar fire at 0200, 20 February, from the vicinity of XD 820569. Later that day, Co. H called artillery on five NVA spotted in the vicinity of XD 805631 which resulted in four secondary explosions. A patrol from Co. G exchanged small arms fire with approximately five NVA at XD 927409. A platoon from Co. E reported receiving one incoming rocket at XD 880588. Later that day, Co. G took two to three NVA under fire at XD 936410. Two enemy POW's were taken. At 2135 that night, Co. E took three NVA under fire at XD 914591 with negative results. On 23 February, this unit reopened FSB Alpine and assumed responsibility for its defense. Co. H reported sighting one NVA in the vicinity of XD 803574. A fire mission on the area produced negative results. That night, Co. H heard two rockets go over their position at FSB Neville and impact about six kilometers to the west. At 1730, 24 February, Co. H reported sighting thirty NVA proceeding east towards their position at FSB Neville. They were fired upon with artillery with unknown results. At 2330 that night, FSB Neville came under attack by an enemy sapper unit of unknown size. The enemy utilized mortars, small arms, RPG's, and satchel charges. The enemy penetrated the perimeter and sporadic fighting continued until dawn. At 0350, Co. E, on FSB Russell, was attacked by an enemy sapper unit of unknown size, employing mortars, RPG's, satchel charges and small arms. Fighting continued at FSB Russell until dawn. The ammunition dumps at both locations were hit during the attack and continued to burn throughout the following day. Later it was determined that sapper units of about 200 NVA had attacked each position. Results of both actions were thirty-one friendly KIA, ninety-one WIA, and sixty-one enemy KIA confirmed by immediate body count on both positions. Co. H, on FSB Neville, continued to take incoming mortar fire throughout the day of the 25th and the 26th, resulting in two WIA. The night of 26 February, both FSB Neville and FSB Russell reported probing activity by the enemy which produced negative results. On 27 February, a patrol from Co. E found two recently dug graves with bodies that were two to three days old at XD 917597. Co. K (-), 3/4, called in mortars on two NVA sighted at XD 899590 with unknown results. On 28 February, Co. H reported receiving incoming mortar fire on two different occasions from a suspected enemy mortar site in the 8257 grid square. Co. H reported that a patrol discovered the remains of two enemy KIA at XD 828579.

The end of the month found the Battalion still maintaining its defense of FSB Neville, FSB Russell and FSB Alpine, while two companies, Co. F (-) and Co. G, maneuvered toward FSB Neville to engage the enemy units attempting to seize FSB Neville, and Co. K 3/4 (-) was being maneuvered to pursue enemy units which had attacked FSB Russell. Intelligence reports revealed that FSB Russell had been attacked by elements of the 27th NVA Regiment, and FSB Neville had been attacked by elements of the 246th NVA Regiment, and that both enemy units had orders to continue to attack both FSBs. As of the end of the month, FSB Russell had been reinforced and was being rehabilitated, but FSB Neville was still surrounded by NVA units employing mortar fire from several positions to prevent helicopters from landing at Neville to deliver supplies or reinforcements. The supreme heroism and magnificent heights of valor by which Marines and Companymen of the Battalion scored during the darkest moments of the defense of FSB Russell and FSB Neville were surely the highlight of this month's activities. Their aggressive and unyielding response to the enemy's supreme efforts and suicidal attack waves, by rising to meet and destroy fanatical sappers in hand-to-hand combat, shattered the momentum and will of the enemy to seize Russell and Neville, and ensured the security of both hills.

1. Conducted six patrols and four night ambushes.
2. At 0001, Company H was attacked on FSB Neville. They took 82mm mortar incoming, followed by an attack by an enemy force of unknown size at 0100. Enemy fired small arms, RPG's and chicom into the friendly positions from the south and east after trying to draw fire by making a great deal of noise outside the perimeter with wooden sticks and metal banging against rock. Company H returned only small arms fire, exhibiting excellent fire discipline. At 0215, contact between Company H CP and the artillery battery CP within the perimeter was lost. At 0255, the enemy began the brunt of their assault on the western side of the perimeter. As the incoming mortar fire died, the enemy assaulted the perimeter, throwing satchel charges as they progressed. At 0300, the company CP lost contact with the first platoon. At 0325, the action died down until 0400 when Company H began receiving sporadic small arms fire which continued until 0700. At that time, Company H began to consolidate, gathering wounded, re-distributing ammunition, and re-establishing a perimeter. MIA bodies were found carrying satchel charges strapped to their backs, and with opium in their possession. The enemy appears were apparently prepared to destroy themselves in a suicidal attempt to accomplish seizure of the hill. Two wounded MIA deliberately blew themselves up to avoid capture. At 0800, Company H discovered that the radio direction unit had destroyed all their gear and equipment with a thermite grenade. At 0855, the medevac of KIA's and MIA's commenced. During the night, counter mortar fire was provided by 60mm mortars, 81mm mortars, and artillery. A flare ship and SPOOKY were utilized continuously during the contact. Company H suffered eleven KIA and forty-two MIA, twenty-nine of whom were medevaced. Thirty-four enemy bodies were found in and around the perimeter at dawn. Also, two wounded MIA in the perimeter wire deliberately exploded satchel charges strapped to their backs when Marines attempted to capture them at dawn. One chopper took three AK-47 rounds on an approach to the LZ on FSB Neville for medevac at 0915. At 0930, one 82mm mortar round landed outside the perimeter. Counter mortar fire was delivered at possible enemy mortar sites.

3. At 0350, Company E reported receiving incoming mortars at FSB Russell, followed by a sapper attack on the northeastern portion of the perimeter with satchel charges. The enemy breached the perimeter swiftly under cover of mortars and hit all the main CP's at once (company CP, 81mm mortar FDC, artillery FDC, and the platoon CP's). All communication with FSB Russell was lost until 0415 when it was re-established with the company commander. When communications was re-established at 0415, a heavy artillery cordon was called in around the perimeter and illumination was provided until daybreak. At about 0500, communication was also established with the First Platoon. At 0535, the enemy was dispersed throughout half the inside of the perimeter and the fighting consisted of hand-to-hand combat on an individual basis. At daybreak, the few surviving enemy withdrew from the perimeter. At that time, Company E began to consolidate, redistribute ammunition, and gather wounded. Air came on station and TPQ's and artillery were placed on all possible avenues of enemy escape. Company E suffered eighteen KIA and thirty-six MIA. Twenty-five enemy bodies were found within the perimeter at dawn.

4. At 1000, Company D, 1/4, was chopped upon to this unit.

5. Company G reported that a wire check at Hill 950 revealed two trip flare wires cut and numerous fresh footprints in the vicinity of ED 929443.

6. At 1100, 2d Platoon, Company B, 1/4, 2d Platoon, Company F, and 2d Platoon, Company E, were chopped upon to this unit.

7. Second Platoon, Company F, 2d Platoon, Company E and Company K (-), 3/4 were helilifted to FSB Russell to reinforce that position. Attempts to reinforce FSB Neville were aborted due to enemy mortar fire on the LZ. Third Platoon, Company D, 1/4, was lifted to FSB Alpine, and 2d Platoon, Company B, 1/4, displaced to reinforce Hill 950.

8. At 1045, FSB Neville received three rounds of 60mm mortar fire. Counter mortar fire was directed towards suspected enemy mortar sites. At 1246, the ambushes from the previous night returned to the perimeter. At 1600, Company H took three rounds of 82mm mortar fire from the northeast. At 1650, the position took three more rounds from the same direction. The ammunition dump was hit resulting in 81mm mortar cook-offs. Personnel continued to work on positions for the night. All medevacs were completed and resupply was accomplished.

9. The ammunition dump at FSB Russell was hit during the night attack and continued burning all day. Cook-offs resulted in two KIA and eleven MIA at 1430. Company E, reinforced and resupplied, worked on defensive positions for the night.

B. INTELLIGENCE

1. Introduction: The mission of the 2d Battalion, 4th Marines for the first half of the month of February was to conduct search and destroy operations around the Con Thien area, and to conduct search and recon in the DZ south of the Ben Hai River. 2d Battalion, 4th Marines also assumed opcon of reinforcement and extraction elements for recon patrols that met with enemy contact in the DZ. These extraction elements, inserted by helicopter, were platoon sized units, furnished by Division, that were called "Sparrow Hawks." During the latter half of the month of February, 2d Battalion, 4th Marines had the mission of security for FSB Russell, FSB Neville, FSB Cates, Hill 691, and Hill 950, with the Alpha Command Group located at Vandegrift Combat Base. 2d Battalion, 4th Marines was under the operational control of the 4th Marine Regiment.

2. Weather: For the first seven days, the weather was cold with scattered rain. The temperature dropped as low as 50 degrees. Visibility was limited to one quarter mile with fog. In the days that followed the temperature went up and the weather cleared up in general. There was a high of 92 degrees and a low of 64 degrees. Cloud cover was scattered up to 3000 feet with visibility up to 3 miles with haze. During the last few days, the weather again became cold with temperatures of 65-70 degrees. There was light rain during this period also.

E. COMMUNICATIONS AND ELECTRONICS

1. Significant Events: During the month of February, the Communications Platoon participated in operations with the Battalion in the Con Thien area and Vandegrift Combat Base area.

2. New Developments: Among the new developments was an increased utilization of Log Periodic Antennas with each of the rifle companies on FSB Russell, Neville, and Cates.

3. Problem Areas: The most serious problem in the Communications Platoon has been the shortage of personnel. The Battalion has received only four communicators during the month and has lost twenty-three to wounds and rotation. A total of nine more are rotating in early March. Another serious problem has been the serious shortages in some items such as handsets, tape and whip antennas, and bases for the PRO-25.

F. LOGISTICS

The Battalion was in need of an emergency resupply of ammunition and food on the 25th of February. The resupply was made by the rear S-4, staged at the Quang Tri LSA. However, only a small portion of the requested ammunition lifted out that day due to bad weather and the shortage of helicopters. During the rest of the month, normal resupply problems were encountered, the shortage of transportation
