OPERATIONS:

KINGFISHER 1-31 August 1967

1. General. During this period from 1 to 31 August 2d Battalion, 9th Marines continued operations as part of Operation Kingfisher. From 1 to 4 August, the battalion occupied the Cam Lo area, assuming responsibility for the artillery position at Cam Lo, security for the Cam Lo Bridge, and control of the Main Supply Route to Con Thien (vic YD 115702). On 4 August the battalion returned to the Dong Ha Combat Base to assume responsibility for the Base Counter-attack Force and Sparrow Hawk Reaction Force. Also included in the mission was the perimeter security for the forward artillery outpost at Gio Linh (vic YD 215734) which was assumed by Company "F", under OPCON of the 12th Marine Regiment. While based in Dong Ha, the battalion conducted many small unit patrols and ambushes, ranging from squad-sized activities to battalion (-) operations. The battalion (-) conducted a 6-day search and destroy mission in the "Phantom Gun" area, which lies just north of Cam Lo. The primary mission of the battalion this reporting period has been the battalion (-) sweep of the Loc Son (Vic YD 155703) and Phu Tho (vicYD 179700) areas. The battalion was highly successful in denying these areas to enemy infiltrators, and accounted for almost total destruction of the numerous bunker complexes in the area.

2. Area.

a. General. The area of Operation, generally north and west of the Dong Ha Combat Base, is primarily in the Peidment region. Consisting of low rolling hills, vegetated by low scrub brush, the area is best identified by the principle USMC bases which surround it; Con Thien (vic YD 115702) and Gio Linh (vic YD 215734), being the northwest and northeast corners, respectively. Running between these two outposts is the most prominent terrain feature in the area-the cleared area known as the "TRACE". The area is bounded on the west generally along the Main Supply Route, running from Cam Lo to Con Thien. The southeast corner is identified by the Dong Ha Combat Base. The specific areas encountered by this battalion were the "Phantom Gun" area, located north of Cam Lo and east of the Main Supply Route, with its center near hill 45 (. YD 154664). This area consists primarily of low rolling hills, vegetated by low thick brush. In and around watering areas, the brush rises to as much as 10 to 15 feet in height and makes movement almost impossible. The Lac Son (vic YD 155703) and Phu Tho (vic YD 179700) area, primary operating area the latter part of the month, was dominated by thick hedgerows which hamper movement, other than on well-used trails. These thickets were heaviest around streams and atop key-terrain features. Also predominant in the areas were large rice paddies, no longer cultivated, and other abandoned agricultural areas.

b. Trafficability. Movement throughout the operating area is generally good to excellent. Most of the Peidmont area is suitable for movement without the use of trails, however in some areas thick brush and hedgerows limit movement to well-used foot paths and roads. More specifically movement in the Lac Son and Phu Tho areas was limited to trails and roads.

However, utilizing tracked vehicles, the battalion was able to facilitate movement in the heavily vegetated areas.

C. Weather. During the month of August, weather was generally good for offensive operations. A summary of the weather for August follows;

MAXIMUM TEMPERATURE:	90
MINIMUM TEMPERATURE:	75
NUMBER OF DAYS WITH RAIN:	6
TOTAL RAINFALL RECEIVED:	15 inches
AVERAGE WINDS:	5-10 knots
VISABILITY	7-10 miles

3. Enemy Situation.

a. General. During the month of August, the enemy committed himself to contact with USMC units very little. His main efforts were trying to build up logistically, prior to the monsoon. He has fallen short of his expected goals, but has not ceased his activities. Enemy units posing the greatest threat to USMC units were the 90th and 803rd Regiments of the 324B Division, North Vietnamese Army. These units continued to base themselves just south of the Ben Hai River and are a constant threat to attack Con Thien. Most of the month was devoted to a buildup and preparation for terrorist activity centered around the General Elections in South Vietnam. Characteristics of these units are well-fed, well-disciplined ground troops, supported by artillery, mortars, rockets, and surface-to-air missiles.

b. Significant Enemy Activity. No significant contacts with the enemy were made during the first 20 days of August. The most significant events during the early part of the month were in the "Phantom Gun" area. These incidents were mostly contacts with enemy mines and booby-traps. Company "G" and "H" had several encounters with mines and booby-traps in the area. The battalion sweep through the area did uncover new bunker complexes which were subsequently destroyed. Other significant events were several sniping and small-unit engagements in the CAC-2 and CAC-3 areas, south and west of the Dong Ha Combat Base, respectively. Both units were under OPCON of this battalion at that time. The latter part of the month the battalion moved to an area midway between Con Thien and Gio Linh just south of the "TRACE" in the Lac Son and Phu Tho areas. While operating in these areas elements of the battalion on numerous occasions reported sightings of NVA.

It appeared the enemy was using the area as a stopping-off point between operating areas to the south and parent units to the north. The entire area appeared to be a substantial base camp with facilities for at least battalion-sized unit. This battalion accounted for much destruction in the bunker areas, which yeilded valuable information as well as a large cache of equipment. For the most part, the enemy, active in this area prior to 20 August, was kept completely off balance and was forced to relinquish a foothold south of the "TRACE". Other significant events were the artillery/rocket/mortar attacks on the Dong Ha Combat Base, as part of the pre-Election Day effort to suppress the General Elections, and the almost constant bombardment of the forward outposts of Con Thien and Gio Linh.

7. Source of Intelligence.

Intelligence information was gained primarily from ground troops and S-2 Scouts. Excellent cooperation and coordination on the part of S-2, 9th Marine Regiment, aided considerably. In addition, the following sources provided additional intelligence of significant value.

a. ARVN Officials
b. District/Province/Hamlet Officials
c. District Police
d. CIT
e. ITT
f. Document translation
g. Captured Enemy Personnel

8. Surveillance Devices. The primary surveillance device used during this reporting period was the "Starlight Scope", utilized for the detection of movement at night. Relatively new to USMC units, the scopes were not employed until the latter part of the month. The battalion has three of these devices and all are now in use in various circumstances; night ambushes, listening posts, and perimeter watches. Both AN/TPS 21's assigned this battalion are currently deadlined awaiting parts, which are unavailable at this time. A total of 17 Seismic Intrusion Devices (SID's) are assigned to this unit, of which there are 3 in operating order. These devices have not been used due to the constant movement of our unit in the field.

9. Psycholgical Operations. Psychological Operations and Civil Affairs during the month of August were kept at a minimum due to the change of operational areas. During August, operational control of the Cam Lo district, was relinquished to the 3d Battalion, 9th Marines, at which time the village of Trung Chi, located southeast of Dong Ha on Highway # 1 (vci YD 263583), was assigned to 2d Battalion, 9th Marines. The new assignment to conduct Civil Affairs in Trung Chi was given the battalion on 24 August, 1967. During the last week in August, the S-5 Chief of this battalion conducted visits to the village and hamlet chiefs. During the visits to the village, tours were conducted by the village chief for the S-5 represenative to acquaint him with the area. The village chief explained that a great need existed for a permanent schoolhouse. The population of Trung Chi is 2,702 of which 1,130 are children under 18 years of age. A report has been submitted to the S-5, 9th Marines, considering the possibility of constructing a schoolhouse. The outlook is good for September, due to the need for Civil Affairs activities in this village. The schoolhouse project could be of great significance in the future.

10. Comments and Conclusions. Intelligence reports throughout August indicated that the enemy was preparing for an all-out effort prior to the General Election, and, for the most part, they were true in every respect. The enemy's push to obtain an effective operating base south of the DMZ was successfully halted by maximun use of air strikes, artillery, and most important, aggresive patrolling by ground units. The enemy's anticipated goals to gain a base in the south; to overrun the outpost at Con Thien; to halt the election effort; and to gather ample rice and supplies for the monsoon, have fallen short of expectations. With monsoon weather on the way, however, it is quite possible that the enemy will continue his extra effort in order to better equip and feed himself for the hard times to come. It is quite obvious that the rains will greatly hamper the resupply process from the north. Thus, all danger areas: the northern outposts; the strategic Main Supply Route, under constant threat of interdiction by the enemy; and the Cam Lo Bridge, must all be kept secure. It is quite apparent the enemy will continue his aggressive actions prior to monsoon, when the heavy rains will limit operations in the northern areas.

b. Sparrow Hawk. During the month of August 1967, the Sparrow Hawk Reaction Force was utilized once on 7 August 1967, to provide security for a downed light observation aircraft (O-1C) in the 9th Marines Operating Area.

8. Training. Operational commitments reduced the amount of formal training that could have been accomplished during the month of August 1967. However, the 2d Battalion, 9th Marines conducted a squad "live-fire problem" and crew-served weapons firing for Companies "G" and "H" at the Dong Ha Combat Base range. During August 1967, 2d Battalion, 9th Marines joined 277 replacement personnel that received training in accordance with Division Order 1510.3A.

a. 2d Battalion, 9th Marines was provided direct artillery support by Battery "E" 2d Battalion, 12 Marines. General support during the month of August was provided by Battery "K" 4th Battalion, 12 Marines (155mm S. P.) and 1st Provisional 8" Howitzer Battery. of opportunity, counter-mortar missions, and harrassing and interdiction targets.

d. During the period 1 to 31 August 1967, an extensive H&I program was carried out at all permanent and over-night positions.

e. Artillery support proved satisfactory with an improvement in the coordination between air and artillery. Air and artillery eastablished routes for fixed wing and helicopters. When air was cleared through our stations, both informed regiment of that information which expedited clearance and reduced the amount of time the 2d Battalion , 9th Marines was without immediate fire support.

10. Air.

a. Medevac. During August a total of 64 Marines were evacuated from the field. The normal quick reaction time provided by the H-34 pilots enabled prompt evacuation of casualties from operational areas.

b. Resupply. A total of 4 supply lifts, involving a total of 10 H-34 sorties, were flown in support of this battalion. Four of these were of an emerengcy nature involving ammo for all types of weapons in the battalion arsenal. Normal resupply consisted of food, water, medical supplies, batteries, clothing, individual equipment, and replacement lifts.

c. Command and Control. A total of two reconnaissance missions were flown in support of the battalion. These were flown in the UH-34D. These flights enabled key battalion personnel an opportunity to view terrain before, during, and after operations.

d. Troop Lifts. There were no tactical troop lifts during the month of August 1967.

e. Fixed Wing. Various airborne FAC's continued to control air strikes in an outstanding manner. F-8's, F-4's, and A-4's were utilized on a total of 17 close air support missions involving 35 individual combat sorties. As compared to previous months the rate of dud bombs was sharpley reduced. A-4's continued to provide the best close air support. Snake-eye bombs of 750 pounds and 500 pounds again proved to be the best adapted for Close-in work (200 meters or less). Napalm was used extensively with varied results. At times, with the foliage dry, the napalm suceeded in setting the brush afire and denying the enemy concealment.

S-4 Chronology

1. General. The logistical situation of this battalion is considered good. There are still problem areas in Supply, Motor Transport, Comm-Elect, and Ordnance.

a. Supply. Significant shortages are 291 field jackets, 598 air mattresses, 413 entenching tools with covers, 567 jungle kits, 408 W. R. bags, 1102 ponchos, 500 mess kits, 658 cots, 90 compasses, 975 poncho liners, 83 wrist watches, and 3 compasses M-2.

b. Ordnance. Currently the following ordnance is deadlined: 3 3.5 rocket launchers, 2 M60 machine guns, 3 .45 cal pistols, 1 riot disperser tank 5 M16 rifles, 2 106RR, 1 M79 grenade launcher, 4 flame tanks, 3 flame guns, and 5 shotguns.

c. Motor Transport. At present we have no vehicles deadlined for 2d echelon maintenance. We currently have 17 of 20 trucks utility M422 A-1, 10 are operational, 7 are deadlined for R&R engines and 3 are code X. Trailer ½ ton (M416B-1)- 18 are operational and is code X. Truck Platform (M274 A-1)- 23 are operational, 7 are code X. Difficulty is being experienced in obtaining arm bearing units, long tie rods, rear wheel bearings and cups, and spark plugs.

d. Comm-Elect. Critical shortages for the AN/PRC-41 and AN/PRC-47 are BB-451 batteries. Comm-Elect rates 24 BB-451 batteries, but has only 4 operational due to the shortages of Electrolyte Kits which were put on order on 4 January 1967 and were reordered on 31 August 1967. The reason for the Electrolyte Kits being reordered was the change of the document number. Monoblocks have been on order since 13 August 1967 for the PRC-41 and PRC-47. The PRC-25 long antenna bases, short antenna, H-138 handsets and modules (particularly the A-9 and A-10) have been on order since 2 May 1967. Shortages for the AN/PRC-47 are battery adapters which have been on order since 17 December 1966.

e. Supporting Units.

(1) FLSU-1 provides the bulk of the logistical support.

(2) EOD support is provided by FLSU-1.

(3) Engineer support is provided by 3d Engineer Battalion.

(4) Truck support is provided by the 9th Motor Transport Battalion and is coordinated through the 9th Marines S-4.

(5) Helicopter support is received from MAG-16 and is coordinated through LSA-1 at the Dong Ha Combat Base for logistic lifts.

2. Camp Developement. During this reporting period a Chapel has been constructed for religious services. The messhall's galley and BAS are now in hardbacks. An additional water bladder is now being used for our shower unit. Laundry services are provided by FLSU-1.

3. Operations. During the month of August this battalion was deployed on Operation Kingfisher. Resupply came from the Dong Ha Combat Base and was accomplished primarily by surface means with limited resupply by air.

Communications Chronology

1. General. The communications platoon furnished radio, wire, message center, repair and maintenance support for the battalion and all attached units during the month. The battalion has occupied 3 forward command posts and 1 rear command post. Electric power was supplied by the 11th Engineer Battalion.

2. Support. The communications platoon has supported the 3d Battalion, Twenty Sixth Marines with the loan of 2 telephones, TA-312/PT, 1 remote control set AN/GRA-39, and wire-laying crew. This battalion supported Battery "E", 2d Battalion, 12th Marines, and 3d Battalion, Twenty Sixth Marines with repair and maintenance through 2d echelon. The 7th Comm Battalion was supported with message forms, both classified and unclassified. The message center section supported the rifle companies with courier service for codes and ciphers, and the C. P. group with couriers for codes, ciphers, spare parts, and accessories.

3. Telephone Communications. The wire section is maintaining a rear command post with normal [illegible] and locals. It is also maintaining a forward command post with loop line communications. Due to relocation of the battalion aid station and some of the quarters, new cables have been installed in the rear command post. The wire section is supplying six men as part of the security platoon while deployed on Operation Kingfisher.

4. Training. Formal instruction was resumed for the first two weeks of this month. Approximately eighty percent of the communications platoon received a total of nineteen hours of instruction on general military subjects. The accelerated training program will start again when the troops return from the field.

5. Difficulties. The shortage of personnel is no longer a problem. Certain items of equipment, I. E. , AB-591, H-138, and monoblocs for the BB-451 are in critically short supply. Priorty 02 requisitions on these items with appropriate follow-ups, date back as far as 180 days.

b. Most of the patients treated at the BAS for the month of August were of a routine nature. There were no new cases of malaria. The battalion remains on a once weekly Primaquine and Chloroquine tablet as preventive against malaria, plus utilization of insect repellent and mosquite netting.

4. Casualties and Hospitalization. There were 127 personnel from the battalion hospitalized during the month of August 1967. 29 were referred admissions to Medical Companies and 30 were BAS admissions. There were 6 KIA's, 3 DOW, 98 WIA's during the month, all of which were a result of direct enemy action. Of these patients hospitalized: 12 cutanous fungus infections, 1 hyperventilation, 4 diarrhea, 1 gastroenteritis, 2 fever unknown origin, 2 cellulitis, 20 contusion, and 2 crush injuries.

5. Training. Informal discussions were held in the BAS by the Battalion Surgeon on the treatment of field wounds. Venereal disease and personal hygiene lectures were conducted by BAS personnel for battalion personnel.

Although this is a supply problem rather than medical, it does have a direct bearing on the welfare of the individual Marine. The temporary difficulty of obtaining water purification tablets
