PART IINARRATIVE SUMMARY

Having witnessed the termination of U.S. military activities in the Republic of Vietnam, the MAG-36 operations department focused its planning and coordination to Operation END SWEEP. The operations department also spearheaded the coordination of several joint military exercises that maintained MAG-36 at a high degree of combat readiness.

The department did extensive groundwork during this period to enhance efficient helicopter control within the Kadema TCA and did much to alleviate the problem of air space restrictions in R-177 and the Northern Training Area (NTA).

MAG-36 operations completed a staff study and numerous point papers on the Helicopter Composite Squadron resulting in a helo-mix of 14 CH-46's, 6 AH-1J's, 4 CH-53's and 2 UH-1E's that will constitute HMM-164 on its upcoming deployment.

LtCol W. T. LUNSFORD took over as the Group Operations Officer during the month of May.

At the close of the reporting period, the MAG-36 operations department was preparing HMM-164 for its deployment with BLT 1/9 on board the USS TRIPOLI and at the same time was making arrangements for the return of HMM-165.

PART IINARRATIVE SUMMARY

(C) Throughout the reporting period, MAG-36 continued to support U.S. operations in Southeast Asia in addition to participating in combined training exercises in the Republic of Korea and the Republic of the Philippines.

(C) The signing of the ceasefire in Southeast Asia brought about the change in posture of MAG-36 units from war-time to a peace-time force in readiness. As a result of the Southeast Asian ceasefire early in the reporting period, HMA-369 returned to MCAS(H) Futema from the Gulf of Tonkin (GOT) bringing to a close an operational first in Marine helicopter aviation: deploying helicopter gunships as an attack hunter-killer unit ("MARHUK"). The treaty also resulted in the initiation of operation END SWEEP. END SWEEP commenced in February utilizing assets not only from MAG-36, but MAG-24 as well. Under the command of CTF-78, the airborne mine-countermeasures (AMCM) and SAR forces of HMM-165, HMM-164 SAR "Det", HMH-463 and HM-12 proceeded into the waters of North Viet Nam to conduct mine sweeping operations.

(C) HMM-164 returned to MCAS(H) Futema in March after being deployed for almost a year. In that same month, HMM-164, under the leadership of LtCol D. E. SCHNIEDER, departed with 10 CH-46 helicopters to TAEGU Air Force Base, Republic of Korea to participate in operation GOLDEN DRAGON, a combined amphibious exercise with U.S. and Korean Marines. HMM-164 was selected again in April to represent MAG-36 in operation PAGASA I. This time utilizing only its CH-53 assets at NAS Cubi Point, the squadron deployed to Mamburao, R.P., to participate in a combined operation of U.S. and Philippine Marines. The Marine Corps' number one helicopter squadron amassed 2746 flight hours for the six month reporting period.

(C) VMGR-152 remained primarily committed to operations in support of

Task Force Delta, however, the squadron flew a variety of other missions including VIP, logistic hops in support of END SWEEP, and local training flights to upgrade pilot proficiency. The squadron flew 5,629 hours, carried 7,650 passengers, 3,106,822 pounds of cargo, refueled 1,727 1stMAW aircraft and gave away 12,425,325 pounds of fuel.

(U) MAG-36 also participated in training exercises on the local level. In March, MAG-36 aircraft flew 145 hours in support of a TACTEST conducted by 1st Battalion, 4th Marines. In the same month, the Group supported "A" Company, 2nd Battalion, 1st Special Forces Group with 59 hours of air operations. Several weeks later the Group was involved in supporting the Defense Organization Conference Association (DOCA) Exercise conducted at Camp Schwab.

(U) The remaining subordinate units of MAG-36 conducted training on an individual basis to maintain their ready posture in addition to providing replacement personnel for units under operational control of CTF-78, Task Force Delta, and 9th MAB.

(U) As the reporting period came to an end, MAG-36 was preparing HMM-164 for its upcoming deployment with the 31st MAU and at the same time making preparations for receiving HMM-165 whose Flag has been deployed from MCAS(H) Futema for over 2 years.
