GREETINGS

To the graduating class of 1942. May I suggest, this is an excellent time for you to review and evaluate your high school activities. I hope, when you have examined your Chilocco school record closer, it will indicate to you the rapid progress that you have made while a student of the Chilocco Agricultural School. You know, as well as the employees do, that you have not completed your education but have merely laid a good or poor foundation for the real progress and development that lies immediately ahead.

The early results of our present war which started at Pearl Harbor December 7 conclusively show all of us what a lack of proper preparedness will do for the armed forces of any country. The same comparative statement will be true in your individual case if you fail to utilize your opportunities and rights as an American citizen to obtain a free but good sound basic education while you are young.

The old world, as we have known it for generations, is being torn to pieces before your very eyes. It will have to be rebuilt with imagination and heroism. In these two fields of defense and re-creation youth has an opportunity never equaled in the world's history. I hope you will rise to that opportunity "by leaps and bounds" for the youth of today must live in this new world that will be built after this present war is over. What that new world will be like may depend largely on what you, as the youth of today, do about it here and now. The eyes of the whole world are upon you, the youth of the United States. People from every country, friend and foe alike, are anxiously awaiting to see if we really believe enough in democracy and our way of life to prepare and make the sacrifice necessary to maintain the same.

Remember this. You will soon be leaving the protecting hand of the Chilocco School, no longer as children but as young women and men, upon which the future of our country depends. We hate to see you go because we have listed you among our good friends and will have to establish new ones in your places, but none of us would change this if we could. I regret it is necessary for us to part but I am proud too. Let me remind you of your good class motto, "Success is the reward of effort" and close by making this comment. Reward without effort would be a hollow victory.

MRS. JOSEPHINE WHITE, Boys' Matron, Home Two

Dedication

Mrs. Josephine White came to Chilocco as a boys' matron in 1935. She is a member of the Oneida tribe and claims Wisconsin as her native state.

Mrs. White is a graduate of the Carlisle Indian School of Carlisle, Pennsylvania. She was employed as boys' matron at the Indian School at Tomah, Wisconsin, before coming to Chilocco.

Although her interests include raising flowers, sewing, driving, and attending church, she never fails to give all of her help to anyone needing it. Boys in the Class of 1942 remember gratefully her kindness to them in their Freshmen days. Every student at Chilocco has felt this same spirit. It is the wish of the Seniors to show our appreciation of her efforts and encouragement in making our life orderly and happy. To Mrs. Josephine White, we dedicate the 1942 Chiloccoan.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

In looking back to our freshman year, the Class of 1942, likes to recall that the selection of class officers took on new importance. We elected Luther McGlashin for class president, and re-elected him for the sophomore class president.

As sophomores we began to earn honors. The Play Day plaque became ours and has been won each year by the Class of 1942.

At the beginning of our junior year in 1940 our classmates who were members of the National Guard were called into Service for Uncle Sam. There were twenty-nine of them: Eugene Alford, Joe Chuculate, Luther McGlashin, Bennie Quinton, Ellis Childers, Scott Keener, Boyette Impson, Kenneth Harrison, Louis Foreman, Warren Fillmore, John Compton, Jeff Hogner, Raymond Deere, Bill Hummingbird, Ben Marshall, Aubrey Titchwy, Hampton Clemons, William Hill, Jack Wilson, Ewing Clemens, James Grant, Luther Grayson, Ben Sparks, Noah Horsechief, Martin Benge, Ephron Canoe, Ellis Christie, Raymond Fillmore and Robert Harrison.

We missed them but we finally settled down and organized our class. George Villareal was elected president. Our class had the honor of selecting two delegates for the National Youth Conference held at Chilocco, and we chose our president and Christene Jefferson for delegates.

An account of our junior year would be incomplete without mentioning the Junior-Senior Prom. Maxine Smith was chosen for our Prom Queen.

At last the fall of 1941! And we are Seniors. Our first honor for the class was the election of George Villareal as President of the Student Council. Then other honors followed. Faye Brown was chosen to represent us as Miss Chilocco at the annual fall festival in Arkansas City. Lucille Impson, Ruth Helen Pickens, Lorene Jackson, Faye Brown, and George Villareal helped to present an excellent radio program over WNAD at Norman, Oklahoma, representing Chilocco. Kathereen Bohanan won first place for her essay "Unity for Victory" both at Chilocco and in Arkansas City. Senior leadership is found also in clubs, music, athletics, and on the honor roll.

There are one hundred and twenty-four seniors to be graduated with the Class of 1942. Again the Army called more of the boys. Fred Tsoodle and Woodrow Billy were drafted after the close of the first semester. William Rice, Lawrence Rice and Tom McCombs enlisted at mid-year and did not complete their work.

EDUCATION AT CHILOCCO

With a full realization of the need for skilled workers in war industries Chilocco continues to emphasize the training of boys in every phase of agriculture, the training of girls to become successful and efficient homemakers, and the development of strength of character to meet problems now facing the youth of America. We know that production of foodstuffs is essential in the present conflict and will continue as a most important occupation after its close. The American home must continue to function as the most vital unit in our culture and its future will depend on the preparation of our young people to become successful homemakers. On their strength of character will depend the future of our nation insofar as their influence reaches into the lives of others.

An opportunity is here for any boy to become proficient in his chosen vocation and basic agriculture training is a requirement for all who attend. The emphasis on science and mathematics is increasing through a recognition of their importance in preparation for participation in war effort. Music has become more meaningful in keeping up morale and providing relaxation and recreation in times of stress. Physical education and health become more important as we recognize a greater need for physical fitness.

Increasing interest in religious activities is contributing to a broader and more stimulating religious program in which every student has an opportunity to better understand spiritual values and to develop leadership in this field.

Our sudden awakening to the ideals of democracy and to the need for insuring their realization leads us to examine more closely and apply more intelligently the principles on which a democracy is founded. Classroom and extra-curricular activity alike share in developing to a greater degree the abilities of each individual to do his part in making our own community a good example of a wholesome and living democracy. The principles of democracy as they are put into practice in every phase of school life permit each person to gain an increasing appreciation of his responsibility for and his obligation to the society of which he is a part.

Activities with which the Council helps include the all-school play day held every year, the amateur hour, group leaders' party, and a program for general assembly. Through the work of the Student Council certain visiting privileges were granted, holiday activities were planned for those staying during the holidays, and steps were taken to improve the dance socials. The Council entertained the Haskell Student Council members the weekend of March 6 to 9.

The Student Council is composed of six seniors, six juniors, four sophomores all elected the preceding spring, and two freshmen elected at the end of the first semester. The sponsors are the Girls' Adviser and the Boys' Adviser, Miss Edna B. Stowell and Mr. Roy Gourd.

AGGIE SNAP-SHOTS

MORGAN HORSES

Chilocco has forty-six head of Morgan horses including twenty-seven registered mares, four stallions, twelve yearling colts and three very young colts. Some of these are shown in the pictures on the opposite page which give you a fine idea of the spirit and action of these pure bred animals.

You may ask, why Chilocco has this herd of lighter weight horses, which are chiefly used for riding purposes, and the horses used for farm work by the Aggie boys are heavier. The school has this herd of Morgan horses because Chilocco is one of the foundation centers for Morgans that are in use in the various government schools. The Indian Service schools are trying to build up their herds of Morgan horses.

Though this breed of horse is chiefly used for riding purposes, it is also valuable for light farm work. They are very beautiful, either in harness or under the saddle. In style of movement, in muscular development, in spirit and in action this animal need not fear comparison with any horse living. There is a boldness in his style, a fire in his eye, and an unceasing play to every muscle, that once seen by a person having any taste for a good horse will never be forgotten.

It is of interest to know something of the history of this breed of horses. Morgans are the oldest registered American bred horse. Years ago in the east they were called the dual purpose horse used on the farms for everything where horse power was needed. The farmers used to hold races among themselves and through this learned that the Morgans were very fast, and thus it led to the Morgans on the race track as trotters.

The Morgans originated in this country through the birth of the horse Justin Morgan, in New England in 1789. Thus the breed is said to be established by a single animal, as it is not known what his actual breeding was. According to "The Morgan Horse Bulletin," a careful study of old records shows that he was descended from the Byerly Turk and the Godolphin Arabian. But there are others who maintain that he was a Dutch horse. Whatever his pedigree may have been, for all practical purposes of the Morgan horse breeder today, it is certain that the combination of bloods that produced Justin Morgan founded a breed that bears his name.

Chilocco Aggie boys assist in the feeding and care of the Morgan herd while they work at the live stock barns. Though other horses including Belgians and Percherons are used for the heavy farm work, a team of Morgans is used for the light farm work around the Dairy barn and the team is the pride of those working them.

Aggie faculty members and farm boys who have the responsibility of riding pastures to check the herds of livestock seem to be an example of the line from James Thomson's poem "Gifts," "Give a man a horse that he can ride" and the poet says he gains rank and wealth. But give a man a Morgan horse and he takes new interest in life as he gallops off, his cares and worries cast to the wind.

Any of the schools that have a beef herd can make good use of several Morgan horses. Eventually these foundation herds of breeding stock will be available for other schools having beef cattle, and will also be available to Indian farmers as foundation stock for a lighter horse needed on the range and for light general farm work.

HOME ECONOMIC SNAPSHOTS

A GIRLS' HOME ECONOMIC DIARY

What a busy day! I have enrolled for my Senior Home Economics courses. For the first semester I shall have classes in Family Relationship, Foods, Nursery School and Child Care. That will leave the second semester for Vocational Guidance, Personal Regimen, and Clothing classes. Some time during the year I shall spend four weeks at the Practice Cottage. Not all of my senior class mates have the same schedule as mine.

I had a big surprise today when I went on an errand into the Junior Foods Laboratory. There in every kitchen were shiny new wood ranges which had been set up during the summer. Only the senior kitchens are now equipped with gas ranges.

.....The Family Relationships class period was spent in outlining the course. I find that some of the things we are to study in this course will deal with one's heritage, problems in religion, race prejudice, child labor laws, and marriage.....On a later day we made a case study of several families and their adjustments. I think this was the most interesting lesson I have ever studied.

Nine weeks have been spent in the Foods class, and I am just about to be assigned to the Nursery School. How much I have done in these weeks! Each girl was assigned to a shiny new kitchen. Planning, cooking and serving meals has been a real test of all we have learned in cooking.

.....Today I began my course in Child Care and Nursery School. I have the feeling that I would have been lonesome had it not been for those little children so hard at work with their crayons and books that they put me in high spirits.....Patty didn't want to go to bed to rest after playing. Steven was stubborn about dressing himself. He says, "I cannot put on my clothes myself. I have tried and I found it impossible." Our teacher said it is not being stubborn but a simple matter of muscular coordination, and soon he will be able to make one hand hold the glove while the other spreads the fingers and puts it on. So far both hands want to do the same thing at the same time.

.....Here it is January 16 and the second semester which is time for me to enroll in Personal Regimen, Vocational Guidance and Clothing classes. I love to sew, and I know I want to know more about jobs for girls.....

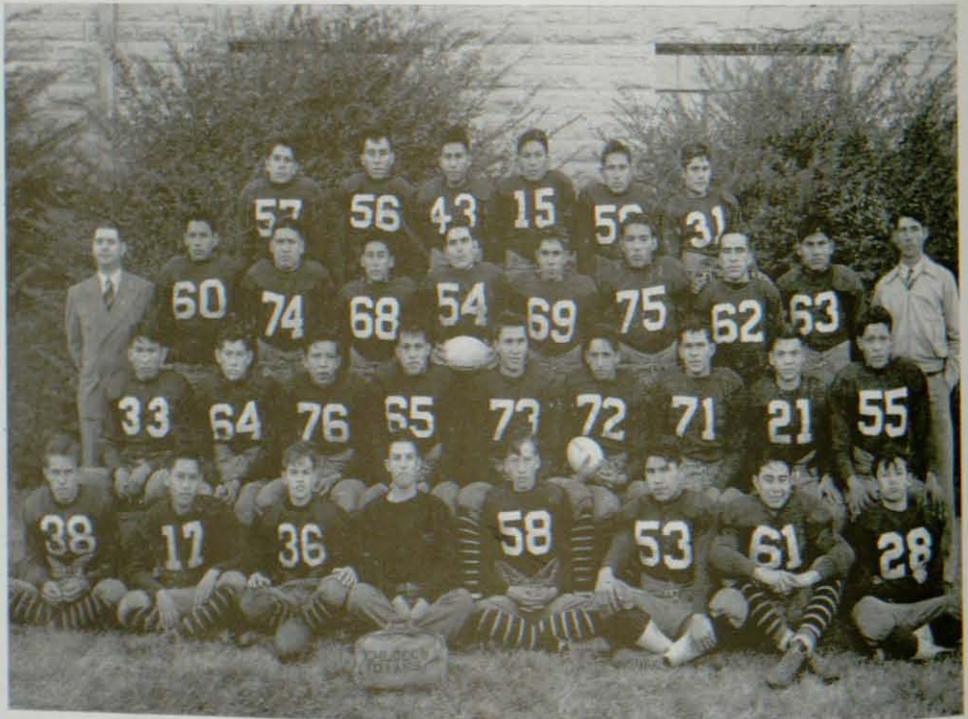

Personal Regimen classes have been studying the problem of good grooming. Maybe I should change my hair style? I am looking forward to the discussions that have been assigned on the problem of what makes a good companion. Perhaps I can check up on my manners when we get to those lessons on correct social usage.....

I have my cotton dress cut out and finished. Imagine finding it hard to make a cotton dress, when I did it four years ago as a freshman. Now I can get started on my wool suit.....

FROM THE CALENDAR

September. After three short months vacation we arrive for another year at Chilocco. Everyone was so busy with the starting of school there wasn't much time for special entertainment. But there were the lawn socials. Here the girls met their "Johns" and went for a quiet stroll around the lawn. Movies of the month, "Strike Up The Band" and "Andy Hardy's Private Secretary," and the watermelon "feed" on the lawn make the first month one to be remembered. So ends the first month and we had rain nearly every day.

October was a month of good times for the students. The All School Play Day tops the list. School clubs are organized and the modest but proud presidents are installed. At last we have our Senior party, but some of the girls are disappointed because the football squad were on a trip to Oklahoma City. To end the month the Hallowe'en Carnival in the boys' gym rewards several for their clever costumes.

November 7 and we now write our first home letters promising to make better grades next time. Armistice Day is observed and Dr. Stricklen reminds us of the privileges of being an American. November 20 is our "Thanksgiving." That's the day the employees wait on the tables in the dining room. Did we keep them stepping? General Assembly was a special treat this month. The Aggies have a picture album and give us several laughs, and their speaker from A&M College entertains with more good laughs. . . . The thermometer drops way down and we have a big snow. Snowballing!

December, and term papers, reports, notebooks, and lessons seem to pile up. Christmas vacation is the popular topic of conversation. Girls' Council and the Girls' Chorus assisted by Miss Dyer present the story of the Nativity for Christmas Vespers.

January and February seem to fly by us. New Year's Day was ushered in by a church service in Haworth Hall. . . Snow and more snow and the thermometer still goes down. . . . General Assembly this month features all those lovely models directed by Miss Ruth Gauger. Wool suits, evening dresses, cotton dresses and play suits prove that there are some excellent seamstresses. . . . Basketball games, boxing matches, and intra-mural games come in rapid secession. . . . The lake is frozen over and we have a regular ice skating rink. . . . Another movie, "Land of Liberty" was enjoyed by Mrs. Antone's American history classes.

March and the theme is "Blow Wind, Blow." It's really tough on the girls. . . . Haskell Student Council paid a week end visit to the Chilocco Student Council. Their sponsor, Mrs. Margaret Speelman used to teach at Chilocco. . . . The Home Economics go Hawaiian for their party and though it was Friday, March 13, it didn't interfere with a good time. . . . You should have seen the Lettermen during initiation week. There were boys wearing dresses and horse collars, and carrying a suitcase packed with bricks. . . . General Assembly on March 25 was a treat with Mr. Richard Six of A&M College to tell us about China. . . . March races to an end with the Chilocco Aggies giving us the best party of the year on March 27.

April, with all the pranks that April Fools' Day suggests brings out a

The importance and value of preparation for any definite task has been strongly amplified in recent months during which all the resources and strength of democratic society and Christian progress have been engaged in a death struggle. . . . Not a more vivid example of the need for preparation could be portrayed than that which the world has witnessed in recent times.

All through history lack of preparation has been a constant stumbling block. It has spelled the downfall, defeat and humiliation for great nations and great men, and has retarded the advancement of many enterprises of merit. It has limited success and achievement to definite degrees of inadequacy and incompleteness. It has provoked the destruction of vast empires of wealth and culture because adequate means of protection were not effected. Great nations have been founded only to be conquered and subdued through the doorway of their own neglect. Men have climbed to the heights of individual accomplishment only to topple into the depths of oblivion because they did not solidify their foundations in the beginning. Once a farmer achieved success in harvesting a bountiful crop, equal in abundance to the idols of his life long dream. Then he lost it to the elements because he had not provided adequate storage facilities. Likewise countless numbers of common men have been constrained to total and abject failure simply because they never even so much as realized the importance of the most simple steps of preparation.

And so the message from the Alumni group to Chilocco's graduates of 1942: You have reached the first milestone along your highway of preparation. Do not falter after advancing this far; gird yourselves for the more arduous trials of life.

IN MEMORIAM

HENRY NOLATUBBY
1922—1941

Henry Nolatubby, Class of '39, is the first Chilocco boy to pay the Supreme Sacrifice in World War II, having been lost in the attack on Pearl Harbor, December 7, 1941. Henry, a Choctaw Indian, from Maysville, Oklahoma, spent three years at Chilocco. As a student he studied the baker's trade, and was a member of the Trades Club, and belonged to the National Guard, Company C, 180th Infantry.

After leaving Chilocco he enlisted in the United States Marines and before the outbreak of the War he had been stationed at Pearl Harbor on the battleship Arizona.

The Chilocco Alumni Association, through this page, commemorate a fellow alumni, for his service to our country.

A GIRLS' HOME ECONOMICS DIARY

It is March 1, and I am to be a member of the Practice Cottage family for the next four weeks..... Oh more fun! The Aggie boys brought us a motherless lamb for the girls to feed and care for. She is almost like an addition to the Nursery School. She drinks her milk from a nursing bottle and her funny little antics amused the children while we built a pen for her. I hope that I will still know how to milk a cow when I have that job. My first job was to cook the meals, and I liked the new wood range which was just like those I saw in the laboratory Today is Saturday and we are doing the family washing, cleaning house, and having ice cream for lunch.

.....Our suits are due April 15. I am almost through with mine. Lining the jacket was quite a job. I gave a report in Vocational Guidance today on the requirements for becoming a nurse. Several girls gave reports on biographies of famous women.....Can you carry on a good conversation? That was our discussion today in Personal Regimen, following our interviews and business letters.....

Tomorrow is the home economics exhibition and I am to model my new blue suit. I am so proud of my sewing, and I do hope that I don't get stage fright.....

I must be sure to get the autographs of my home economics teachers for my book before the end of the year.

few shoe collectors. . . .Senior girls complete their special course in first-aid so that they can do their part in defense efforts. . . .Several boys are seen working with airplane models, which is also a part of civilian effort.

The second "All School Play Day" arrives on April 24, and the Seniors win the plaque they have been keeping for the past four years. The month ends with an exhibition of work from the Home Economics classes, and the Senior girls again turn fashion models.

A May Day festival and still no let up in work or classes. Commencement plans are in the air. Seniors seem to take over now. It's time for the Junior-Senior Prom on May 8, and it is actually in honor of us. The Class President is a busy fellow these days, with the Group Leaders Party on May 15, Baccalaureate on May 17, Alumni Day on May 18, and Commencement on May 20. . . .Many of the Seniors appeared in the patriotic pageant, "America The Beautiful," which was directed by their music teacher Miss Dyer, and made our last week at Chilocco one that we will like to remember.

Why, we're graduated! We're Alumni, and we are shaking hands all around getting addresses and some start for home and we hear our selves saying, "We'll come back for Alumni Day."

CONCLUSION

The 1942 CHILOCCOAN was planned and written by members of the Senior Class, and printed by the Indian printers. A committee of seniors representing each class included William Comfort and James Byrd, the two senior students in printing; George Villareal, class President and Dorothy Walker, class Secretary; Sam Nelson to represent the Aggies; and Inez Johnson, Margie Joice, Martha Reese and Edna Bond who wrote the class history, calendar events, and home economics stories.

The CHILOCCOAN is a senior year-book given each year as a gift to the graduating class by the Chilocco Indian Agricultural School, and may be purchased from the school office by others.

The annual committee from the Senior Class is also grateful for copy submitted as greetings from the alumni president, Mr. Thomas Moore; a message from Principal W. K. Kelley; and the greeting to the class from Superintendent L. E. Correll.
